Backslop	2:33	Baby Earl & The Trinidads
Fortunate Son	2:21	Creedence Clearwater Revival	Featured on album Willy and the Poor Boys, released 1969. An anti-war anthem, criticising militant patriotic behavior and those who support the use of military force without having to "pay the costs" themselves
Masters of War	4:37	The Staple Singers	Written by Dylan and can be found on album The Freewheelin' Bob Dylan, 1963. A powerful protest song against the government and the military. This from 1964.
Army Dreamers	2:58	Kate Bush	1980. About a young man who has just been killed in a war - he joined the Army because he didn't know what else to do with his life.
(What's So Funny 'Bout) Peace, Love and Understanding?	3:32	Elvis Costello	Written by Nick Lowe. This version appeared on US version of Armed Forces 1979. Curtis Stigers version appears on 'Bodyguard' soundtrack and made Lowe wealthy
Peace Train	4:13	Cat Stevens	Taken from his album 1971 Teaser and the Firecat, his first US top 10 hit.
English Civil War	2:35	The Clash	Featured on their second album Give 'Em Enough Rope, 1979. Derived from an American Civil War song, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home", written by Irish-born Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore.
Sunday Bloody Sunday	4:39	U2	From 1983 album War. It highlights the Bloody Sunday incident in Derry in 1972 where British troops shot and killed unarmed civil rights protesters and bystanders.
Realities of War	1:17	Discharge	British hardcore punk band formed in Stoke in 1977 by Terence "Tezz" Roberts and Royston "Rainy" Wainwright. From Realities of War EP, 1980.
Life During Wartime	5:51	Talking Heads	Released as the first single from their 1979 album Fear of Music. Its official title as a single is "Life During Wartime (This Ain't No Party... This Ain't No Disco... This Ain't No Foolin' Around)", which makes it one of the longest-titled singles ever.
Holiday In Cambodia	4:39	The Dead Kennedys	About an American kid who expects to go off to college and thinks he knows everything - only to get drafted and sent to Vietnam. 1980, from Fresh Fruit For Rotting Vegetables album.
War Dance	3:45	Killing Joke	Released in 1980 as the first single from the band's self-titled debut studio album. Never charted in UK.
And The Band Played Waltzing Matilda	7:00	Eric Bogle	Written by Scottish-born Australian Bogle in 1971 and describes war as futile and gruesome, while criticising those who seek to glorify it - as seen by an Australian soldier who is maimed at the Battle of Gallipoli during the First World War.
Camouflage	5:11	Stan Ridgeway	1986, not a hit in his native US, but reached number 4 in UK. Sung from the viewpoint of a young P.F.C. (Private first class) of the United States Marine Corps during the Vietnam war who is unaffected by bullets and is capable of superhuman feats.
19	3:31	Paul Hardcastle	Title refers to the average age of US soldiers who fought in the Vietnam War. Won an Ivor Novello award for the best selling single of 1985. This is the only single named entirely after a number to top the UK charts.
The Partisan	3:29	Leonard Cohen	"La Complainte du Partisan" ("The Partisan") is about the French Resistance in World War II and was written in 1943 in London by Emmanuel d'Astier de la Vigerie and the music by Anna Marly. This from Songs from a Room, 1969.
World Destruction	3:52	Time Zone	Headed by Afrika Bambaataa and working with John Lydon on this in 1984.
Snoopy Vs. The Red Baron	2:46	The Royal Guardsmen	Recorded in 1966 by the Florida-based pop group The Royal Guardsmen who weren't royal or guardsmen at all.
What's Going On	3:54	Marvin Gaye	Gaye's lyrics in this song were inspired by the stories his brother Frankie told him when he came back from the Vietnam War.
Lili Marlene	3:26	Marlene Dietrich	In 1915, as a 22-year-old soldier in the First World War, Hans Leip wrote this poem to express the anguish of separation from his sweetheart Lili. On sentry duty at night, he would receive a friendly wave from a nurse going off duty; her name was Marleen.
Fallen Soldier	4:22	Melissa	A personal tribute to every fallen hero with words by novelist Frederick Forsyth.
